

HAVE A NICE DAY (HAND)

Create Commission

January - September 2013

Curated by Attilia Fattori Franchini

EVENTS:

Greenwich Dance on Saturday 29th June, 2013

Barbican Galleries: 13th July, 2013

SUCCESSONE:

bubblebyte.org take-over of Create's website, 13th July - 14th September 2013

Have A Nice Day (HAND), was a two part commission comprising an artwork by Hannah Perry, and a digital take-over by bubblebyte.org.

ARTWORK COMMISSION: JUST RELAX >>>> Watch film

Hannah Perry's multi-media is part-sculpture, part-intervention. For HAND, Perry opened up her practice to develop a collaborative production of live video and performance, which took the final form of a green screen installation that allowed the audience to simultaneously see a conflux of pre-recorded video, audio, live performance and music.

An open rehearsal was staged at Greenwich Dance on Saturday 29 June and the live performance took place on Saturday 13 July the Barbican Art Gallery, London.

In developing the work Perry collaborated with six invited artists, Jesse Darling, Stan Jordanov, Yuri Pattison, Paul Purgas, Alex Ressel and Rosie Whitney-Fish in the respective areas of audio production, live video and performance. From May to July 2013, the artist ran a series of sessions which enabled Perry to co-produce the piece with a group of teenagers at and from Click-Click Pose, in Woolwich.

In the sessions, Perry and the teenagers examined influences on the modern life of the young people, and engaged the teenage participants in the collection and generation of digital material and development of the work. The final film and performance have been informed by the teenagers' worldview through their use, production and manipulation of multi-media, exploring how they process image, sound, news, facts and trends.

In addition to these sessions, the final performance wove in a series of live movement and gesture pieces.

CREATE WEBSITE TAKEOVER: 13 JULY – 14 SEPTEMBER 2013

Online platform bubblebyte.org created SUCCESSONE, a curated take-over of Create's website throughout the duration of Have a Nice Day project.

During the workshop sessions, bubblebyte.org generated a soundboard of audio works with the participants and artist collaborators. This soundboard has then formed the basis for other artists, invited by bubblebyte.org, to generate a range of new art works to be integrated within the existing fabric of the Create's website design.

For more information:
www.createlondon.org